

CONCLUSIONS: The auricular acupuncture protocol used in this study may be an effective and feasible treatment option for reducing knee pain due to osteoarthritis. This pilot study shows promise for providing low cost, effective, and a safe treatment option. The results are encouraging but need further investigation on a larger scale.